

Honorable Richard A. Jones

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

THOMAS TURNER,

Plaintiff,

vs.

W.W. GRAINGER, et al.,

Defendants.

NO. C09-1068RAJ

ORDER

I. INTRODUCTION

This matter comes before the court on Plaintiff's motion to compel (Dkt. # 22). The court held a telephone conference to discuss this motion on April 13, 2010. This order memorializes the oral rulings from that conference, where the court DENIED the motion (Dkt. # 22).

II. BACKGROUND

Plaintiff Thomas Turner filed this lawsuit against his former employer, W.W. Grainger, Inc. ("Grainger"), his former manager Ronald Hansen, and his unnamed former managers and supervisors at Grainger, contending that his employment was wrongfully terminated. According to Grainger, Mr. Turner was terminated because he

1 improperly used his employee account to purchase items to benefit himself and his 2 friends and family. Mr. Turner claims that his termination constitutes age 3 discrimination and retaliation.

4 During a deposition of Mr. Hansen, Plaintiff's counsel asked him questions about 5 a telephone conversation he had with officers from Grainger's legal, risk management, 6 and human resources departments. Mr. Turner was suspended and then terminated
7 shortly after this call. Counsel asked Mr. Turner whether he had a decision-making role
8 in Mr. Turner's termination, and Mr. Hansen answered that he made a recommendation 9 regarding termination but the ultimate decision was not his. See Mann Decl. (Dkt. # 22-
10 2), Ex. A at 6:20-23. Plaintiff's counsel then asked Mr. Hansen who asked him for a 11 recommendation, and Mr. Hansen answered that the people he talked to were from the 12 legal, human resources, and risk management departments. After he gave that answer, 13 defense counsel instructed Mr. Hansen not to disclose anything about the conversations 14 with Grainger's in-house counsel, Hank Galatz, because those conversations are 15 protected by the attorney-client privilege. See Mann Decl., Ex. A at 8:15-18.

16 Plaintiff's counsel then asked Mr. Hansen if he could name the people who he 17 talked to on the telephone about Mr. Turner's termination, and Mr. Hansen named them.
18 Plaintiff's counsel asked if Mr. Hansen provided them with a recommendation, and Mr.
19 Hansen answered that he did. See Mann Decl., Ex. A at 9. After Plaintiff's counsel 20 asked him what recommendation he made during the conversation, defense counsel 21 instructed Mr. Hansen not to answer because in-house counsel participated in the 22 conversation. Id.

23 Plaintiff's and defense counsel then discussed on the record whether the 24 attorney-client privilege applied to this phone call. The parties then recessed and 25 discussed the issue further off the record. After resuming the deposition, Plaintiff's 26 counsel asked Mr. Hansen to again specify the recommendation he made during the 1 phone call. Defense counsel again objected to the extent that Mr. Galatz was present for 2 that conversation, but instructed Mr. Hansen to answer the question if he had otherwise 3 provided a recommendation.

4 Mr. Hansen then answered that he did not make a recommendation, but instead
5 discussed possibilities and options. See Mann Decl., Ex. A at 11-12. Plaintiff's counsel
6 asked Mr. Hansen what possibilities and options were discussed, and defense counsel
7 objected on privilege grounds and instructed Mr. Hansen not to answer. Plaintiff's 8 counsel asked Mr. Hansen whether other specific topics (such as Mr. Turner's age, his 9 longevity of employment, or Grainger's severance policy) were discussed during the 10 phone call — and defense counsel instructed Mr. Hansen not to answer any of those 11 questions. Id., Ex. A at 52. Plaintiff's counsel then asked Mr. Hansen whether he 12 solicited Mr. Galatz's legal advice, and Mr. Hansen answered that he did not. Id., Ex. A 13 at 108:6-14. He elaborated that the conversation reviewed policy problems, and served 14 to discuss whether Mr. Turner had violated Grainger's guidelines or policies, and if so, 15 what should be done next. See id., Ex. A at 108:25-109:7.

16 Though this deposition was thereafter completed, for reasons unrelated to the 17 dispute regarding privilege, Grainger offered to present Mr. Hansen for re-deposition.
18 Mr. Turner filed this motion to compel, asking that the court require Mr. Hansen to 19 answer the questions that defense counsel instructed him not to answer in the previous 20 deposition.

21 III. ANALYSIS

22 The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provide that “[p]arties may obtain 23 discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party's claim or 24 defense” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). The attorney-client privilege protects 25 communications with in-house counsel if providing legal advice is the purpose of the 26 communication. In re Vioxx Prods. Liab. Litig., 501 F. Supp. 2d 789, 795 (E.D. La.

1 2007).

2 Mr. Galatz has stated that he participated in the phone call at issue for the 3 purpose of providing his “legal thoughts as they related to Mr. Turner’s misconduct.”
4 Galatz Decl. (Dkt. # 29) ¶ 3. As such, the call at issue appears to fall squarely within 5 the coverage of the attorney-client privilege. Mr. Turner has not provided this court
6 with any basis to believe that Mr. Galatz’s provision of legal advice was not the primary 7 purpose of the phone call. In the absence of that evidence, the court concludes that the 8 attorney-client privilege protects the conversation with Mr. Galatz.

9 The court also finds Mr. Turner’s waiver/unfairness argument to be unavailing.
10 Mr. Turner contends that it would be unfair to apply the attorney-client privilege here 11 because the phone call at issue was “a decision-making call” and is thus “essential to the 12 discovery of the process and motivation for [Mr. Turner’s] investigation, suspension 13 and termination.” Pltf.’s Supp. Reply (Dkt. # 32) at 3. But the record does not support 14 that characterization of the conversation. Instead, the record indicates that no final 15 decisions were made during the conversation at issue, and that in any event Mr. Galatz 16 was not a decision-maker with regard to Mr. Turner’s termination. See Galatz Decl. ¶ 3; 17 Mann Decl., Ex. A at 6:19-23, 12:1-2. Mr. Turner has not established that the 18 privileged information sought is necessary to his case, such that the privilege should not 19 apply.

20 IV. CONCLUSION

21 Accordingly, the court DENIES Plaintiff’s motion to compel (Dkt. # 22). If the 22 Plaintiff re-deposes Mr. Hansen, as offered by the Defendant, the Plaintiff may not 23 inquire with regard to the privileged communications addressed in this order. The 24 Plaintiff may inquire as to other topics, including but not limited to: (1) the identity of 25 the decision-maker with regard to Mr. Turner’s termination; (2) when the decision to 26 terminate Mr. Turner was made; (3) whether Mr. Hansen made a recommendation

1 regarding Mr. Turner's termination; and (4) communications Mr. Hansen made during 2 conversations where Mr. Galatz was not present.

3 DATED this 16th day of April, 2010.
